

PETERSVILLE IS SCENE OF ALLEGED BRUTAL MURDER

Youth, Charged With Killing Lewis County Man With a Shot Gun, Is Arrested in Rowan County and Returned to Vanceburg Jail.

One of the most brutal murders in this section of the country in recent years is reported from Petersburg, Lewis county, where on last Wednesday Jack Hollar, prominent farmer, was shot to death with a shot gun alleged to have been used by Howard Bally, a twenty-year-old youth.

The murdered man was found lying in his front yard at about 9 o'clock Wednesday night by his deaf and dumb son, who was in the house at the time of the alleged murder. The small boy was startled by the concussion of the shot gun and went into the front yard where he found his father lying near a gate. In some manner he gave an alarm and obtained assistance.

Sheriff Lykins was notified and was on the job in a short time looking for some motive for the crime. He learned that Mr. Hollar had objected to young Bally sleeping about his farm and had ordered him to leave the place. By further investigation he found that young Bally had left the neighborhood and that on the day of the crime, he had borrowed a shot gun from a neighbor.

The officer started on the trail of Bally and located him on a farm about five miles from Morehead. Bally is said to have made a confession of the crime. He will be given a hearing before County Judge Stone, of Lewis county.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I am now ready to do any kind of painting or paper hanging. Let me make you an estimate on any painting or papering you wish done.

Do you know that extensive exposure tests conducted under careful scientific directions have proven the greater durability and protective qualities of a paint prepared with White Lead alone shows early tendency to chalk off the surface, decreasing in decorative and protective qualities as the chalking progresses. The addition of zinc oxide with its hardening properties prevents early chalking of the lead and gives a much more durable paint.

I mix zinc oxide in my paint with expert skill.

Mr. C. Calvert Early, proprietor of the Navarre Cafe located in the building recently purchased by James Purdon & Company, has just purchased from the Shackelford estate the building in West Second street opposite the Washington Opera House occupied by Frost & Haucke's restaurant.

Mr. Early will get possession of the building within a short time and contemplates extensive improvements to make room for his popular restaurant and pool room. Under the present plans, the building will be extended in the rear to cover the entire lot and the basement will be so improved as to make a first class bowling alley, something that is needed in Maysville.

Just when these contemplated improvements will be made will depend upon when Mr. Early will move to his new home.

Messrs. Frost & Haucke have not yet announced their new location.

OMAR MEYERS RELEASED.

Tuesday night, Omar Meyers, under sentence for five years in the Frankfort penitentiary on a charge of being implicated in the burning of Wilford Cooper's barn, near Willow Grove, this county, on Christmas night, 1920, was discharged from Covington jail, where he had been confined since March term of court, awaiting the action of the court of appeals upon his application for a new trial. The higher court reversed the Bracken circuit court, its ruling being to the effect that "dog evidence" was not sufficient to convict a man of arson, unless supported by other evidence. Commonwealth Attorney Granville recommended that Meyers be discharged from custody. The decision of the higher court means that other members of the Meyers family, under indictment on the same charge, will not be brought to trial unless additional evidence is secured. —Augusta Chronicle.

SALVATION ARMY TO SEEK FUNDS HERE FOR SERVICE FUND

Representative of Salvation Army in Maysville in Interest of the Home Service Fund Which Is Doing Good Work.

Charles Mohr, Covington, Ky., who has put on several Home Service Fund Appeals for the Salvation Army in Kentucky, is planning a similar appeal for this city.

"In all towns visited," said Mohr, "who is a veteran newspaper man and many years on the staff of the Cincinnati Enquirer, 'all of the churches, fraternal organizations and especially the American Legion and Women's Auxiliary endorsed the work of the Army. I was surprised," said Mohr, "how well the work of the Salvation Army is known in small towns."

"In but one place," he said, "was I met with a peculiar question. A prominent man wanted to know what good the Salvation Army did for the place."

"I referred him to the County Judge who, without giving names, told him the Army took care of three women from that town who had been betrayed. Satisfied with the answer he gave $100."

There are many similar instances in Kentucky. The money raised in Kentucky remains in the state for the poor. Right now the demand is big, especially for the nurseries, and if any one turns down the Army it is because she or he has not the money.

One thing is certain. Money given to the Army reaches the needy.

Frequent soliciting by the Army has been abandoned for the reason their help is needed in other Army work. However, there are impostors who Mohr claims, say or leave the impression they do the same work as the Salvation Army. Some say they are a branch of the Army.

Appeals put on by Mohr cost the Army practically nothing. The Army gets the money which remains in the state and the poor get the benefits.

In all places visited Mohr has enlisted citizens and the town marshals against impostors.

"The record of the Army is clean," said Mohr, "its cards are open on the table, its books open. It has nothing to keep from the public."

However it protects the fallen women from publicity. Newspaper men know this. The Army turns no one away. To the contrary. Why should any one turn them down. What did the soldier boys say in letters to their mothers when fighting fiercely over there?

"Dear Mother: — Never turn down the Salvation Army. They are so good to us. They are at our sides on the firing lines giving us food and aid."

You never heard the Army boast about what it has done and is still doing.

They act, yes, quickly when need is wanted.

Then why should any one turn down the Army.

MUST APPEAR IN U. S. COURT, JUDGE DECIDES

Judge Cochran Holds That the Serving Of Jail Sentence on State Charge Doesn't Excuse Defendant.

Lexington, Ky., June 15. — Even if a person under bond to appear in federal court on a charge of violating the national prohibition law bet put in jail for violating the state prohibition law, it is no excuse for not answering the charge in federal court, Judge A. M. J. Cochran ruled this morning in ordering bonds forfeited in several cases in which the defendants were reported to be serving jail sentences on state charges.

The ruling was made in the case of Earl Gaines, of Pulaski county, charged in federal court with operating a moonshine still. An attorney answered for the defendant that he was in the Somerset jail on a state charge, whereupon District Attorney Sawyer Smith moved that his bond be forfeited, a capias warrant issued and the case continued, remarking, "He had no business to get in jail at Somerset."

Judge Cochran sustained the motion and applied the same rule to a dozen or more other cases during the arraignment of 112 defendants who indicted late Tuesday afternoon in seventy separate indictments.

Seventeen defendants pleaded guilty and stood aside to await sentence during the day. Forty-seven pleaded not guilty and will be tried during the term unless their cases are otherwise disposed of.

MARVIN'S FATAL RIDE.

The Flemingsburg Times-Democrat says:

At Pebble, Bath county, Saturday afternoon, one Marvin Bailey, aged about 19, got his hide full of moonshine and mounted his horse for a ride. He is said to have spurred the horse to top speed up a rocky branch road, and the horse stumbled and fell, crushing Bailey's skull and causing his instant death, while the horse did not die until the next morning. Bath county murder juke is just as deadly as the Maysville variety.

Bro. Duley might have added that the Fleming county variety of "moon" is also somewhat deadly these days of "prohibition."

LENINE KISSES CAPITAL

Judging by press reports, Lenin is acquiring some economic sense, though it may well be doubted whether he has had a change of heart. His cunning may be far superior to his conscience. However that may be, it is interesting to note that a corporation has been formed by Soviet sympathizers in the United States for the purpose of taking control of certain clothing factories in Russia, which factories are to be turned over to the corporation by Lenin, who had evidently confiscated them from the former owners. Funds for the corporation are to be raised by selling shares at $10 each and dividends are to be paid as profits will permit.

Lenin having given his approval to the scheme, one would naturally infer that he had qualified his declaration of eternal war upon capital. The $10 per share which he and his sympathizers expect the American people to invest, is capital—the savings of thousands of hard working Americans who spent a little less than they earned. With the ink hardly dry on his announcement that he would never compromise with capital, Lenin would welcome any small amounts of capital—or large amounts—that he can extract from the pockets of industrious and thrifty people. A more impressive tribute to the importance of capital could scarcely be imagined.

Quite likely the organizers of the movement will be able to raise the necessary funds by selling share in the corporation at $10 each, but, after the money has been brought together and the factories taken over, the investors of that money will undoubtedly feel some concern lest Lenin put into practice once more his theories of nationalization of property. If he could confiscate the factories in the first place, he can later confiscate the property of the corporation that takes them over and operates them, or he can confiscate the profits that might be available for the payment of dividends.

Another feature of the news report that challenges attention is the emphasis placed upon the promise of dividends. That promise was highly important if funds were to be raised on other than a charity basis. People who have worked and saved while others were idling or oppressing, feel that they have a right to remuneration for the use of their savings. They feel that they are entitled to benefit by their industry and self sacrifice. The Soviet sympathizers recognize this almost world-wide principle of individual property rights, notwithstanding their own Soviet government expressly denies it.

It will be both interesting and instructive to observe the progress of this effort to bring capital to the rescue of its sworn enemies. Apparently there can be but one of two results—either Lenin must acknowledge the essential character of capital or he must repeat his previous acts of confiscation. Whichever course he pursues, the world will get an additional lesson in economics.

HEADLINE HEADLIGHTS

For the encouragement of those downcast Democrats who are unable to see the rising sun of prosperity as it emerges from the gloom left by Democratic regime, we quote the following headlines from recent issues of Democratic newspapers:

Foreign trade now exceeds volume in pre-war period.
Factors point to continuation of upward move.
Renewed demand for steel products.
Expansion of U. S. investments.
Stock and bond markets higher.
Rally in wool market.
French recovery in trade indicated.
Heavy retail movement expected in June.
Railroads gain in net for April.
Fewer idle coal ears.
Makes copper production record.
Lower interest rates to farmers.
Fabricated steel orders are heavy.

BOLSHEVIK EFFICIENCY.

If the bolshevik government of Russia is designed to put a stop to production, as intimated by the notes of Secretary of State Hughes it is certainly working at high efficiency in securing low productive power. In 1913 Russia produced 257,000,000 pounds (pood equals 36.1 pounds) of pig iron, 259,000,000 pounds of open-hearth steel, and 214,000,000 pounds of rolled steel. That was under the czaristic regime, which in itself was not very great encouragement to the productive power of the country. But in 1921, under the benign influence of Lenin and Trotsky, the two gentlemen who lost East Side New York to escape work and graft on the demoralized Russian nation, that nation produced 7,000,000 pounds of pig iron, 10,000,000 pounds of open-hearth steel, and 12,000,000 pounds of rolled steel. And probably most that was used by the Russian army. These figures are taken from the Bolsheviki official press. National control of productive lines in the United States, as advocated by some, and as adopted in part by the previous administration, would make just about the same showing, relatively speaking.

MON DIEU! TARDIEU!

Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner to the United States during the war, is following the lead of some other Europeans in holding this country responsible for most of the ills of Europe. "Americans," says he, "in trying to make laws for Europe make as big a mistake as we should if we tried to make laws for America." Just what he means by that language is not clear. Of course the United States has not attempted to make laws for Europe; all we have done is to point to certain fundamental truths and suggest that European nations be guided thereby. They are policies that we have not hesitated to apply to our country, and our own experience has proved their soundness. If France and other European nations would apply themselves to production, the reduction of unnecessary armaments, and the payment of their just debts, there would be no difficulty in getting substantial loans from private sources in the United States, without which they profess they cannot recover.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, June 14.—(Special Correspondence) — There has for some time been pending before Congress a bill introduced by Representative John Jacob Rogers, of Massachusetts, "for reorganization and improvement of the foreign service of the United States." That bill is on the calendar and hearings are expected to take place with respect to it in the near future.

Briefly the bill provides for the creation of a single foreign service through the amalgamation of the diplomatic and consular services on an interchangeable basis; representation allowances for foreign service officers; a corps of foreign service pupils to be educated for the service at government expense; a retirement system for foreign service officers, based on the present civil service retirement act. In view of the American Consular Bulletin the Rogers bill, if enacted, will record another milestone in the upbuilding of our foreign service.

While Secretary of State Hughes has not formally approved this measure, it is quite evident from the address which he made recently to the U. S. Chamber of commerce at its annual convention in Washington that the Rogers bill is in harmony with Mr. Hughes' ideas. With respect to the interchangeability of the services he said:

"There is also the need of a greater flexibility. There has long been too great a distinction between the political interests of the diplomatic service and the commercial interests of the consular service. Both are engaged in political work and both are engaged in commercial work. You cannot at this time take economics out of diplomacy. If you would protect our interests on the one side you must support them on the other, and I believe that the two branches of the service—now called the diplomatic and consular—should be drawn together and treated as an interchangeable unit. This would permit the men to be assigned from one service to the other and thus give a greater range of opportunity for putting men in places where they belong as their aptitudes and special talents are revealed."

With respect to additional allowances for foreign service officers the secretary declared "the truth is that our foreign service is undermanned and underpaid" and he called attention to the fact that the cost of the entire service of the State Department, foreign and domestic, amounts to less than $11,000,000. The receipts of the department exceeded the expenditures by $1,270,000 last year, due in part to high passport fees which Mr. Hughes hopes to see reduced.

With respect to educating men for the service, the Secretary said: "The patent fact is that you cannot have an efficient foreign service without having trained men and you cannot secure trained men without an adequate system for their selection and maintenance."

Throughout his entire address Mr. Hughes stressed the fact that foreign service officers are woefully underpaid, a situation which creates "a double harm, first in keeping out men who would invigorate the service, and on the other hand in creating the impression that it is a rich men's club" since none but the well-to-do can afford to serve. Naturally this suggests that even if the pay is somewhat augmented, retirement pay is a wise provision. "I say humbly that no American can face the facts without a sense of humiliation," says the secretary, "and he is compelled to qualify his boasting of our intelligence and civilization so long as this condition continues."

And it will continue so long as the Democrats keep up their obstructionist tactics in Congress which prevent consideration of pressing constructive legislation.

BALL-PYLES.

Two of the oldest families of Kentucky were united when Miss Nelle Hamilton Ball became the bride of Professor Henry Milton Pyles, Jr., at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Rev. James E. Savage, in Lexington at 3 p. m., Wednesday, June 14th, 1922.

The bride who is the daughter of the late L. G. Ball, of California, Kentucky, comes from the Ball family who are directly descended from that branch of the family that gave to the United States her first president, the mother of George Washington being a Ball. Through her mother she is a direct descendant of the first governor of Kentucky, her mother's name being formerly Miss Lucy Lawson.

The groom who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Pyles of the county is professor of Biology in Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, Ky., etc.

The wedding was a very quiet affair owing to the recent bereavement in the groom's family, only the immediate family being present. After the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. James E. Savage, pastor of Park M. E. Church, South, Lexington, Ky., brother-in-law of the bride, the happy couple left for Cincinnati where they will take the Steamer General Wood for Pittsburgh, from there they will go to Washington City and visit the groom's brother and other relatives in Maryland. About July 1 they will come to visit the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Pyles, at their country home, The Twin Elms. In August they will go to Winchester, Ky., where they will make their home.

The Civic Improvement Club will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Clayton.

"GOLF IS A QUEER GAME."

At one time it was supposed to attract only the Scotch. It was then the simple game of the proverbial penurious Scotchman, but or how it has changed. Especially since the ladies by their long drives and low scores are demanding consideration. And with the ladies come the powder puff, the vanity mirror and everything that tends to make the landscape picturesque and beautiful.

Why not? Why shouldn't a person learn to be an artist as well as a golf player? Why should a golfer, especially ly a woman golfer—a young woman particularly—and unattached—come in from a round of golf with her face blazing red and looking as if she had been through the place to which the men golfers consign many of their bad shots.

It is a secret, so they say, why the knowing ones can play 18 holes in the hot sun and still have that beautiful brown tan that looks so becoming—and not burn or blister—or anything so common as that. Cold cream—that's the magic. If a man used it he probably would look like a greased pig. But the ladies—God bless them!—they will apply it with the deftness and daintiness of an artist. And it will not show. And it will protect their complexions against the blazing sun.

One rude man was no gentleman. He was recently bragging around the clubhouse of a famous country club nearby, that his wife—though weighing nearly 200—could keep cooler in hot weather than anybody he ever knew. Finally he blurted out that she took a cold cream bath every night and then he went on to explain that some well known "skin-on-alive" specialist had told him that cold cream opened all the pores of the skin so that the whole body could breathe. He got awfully mad when some wag said "Just like a 'Porosknit' eh?"

But then there may be something to this cold cream stuff. For how can a man keep his eye on the ball if his face is burning and smarting and if he is so hot and uncomfortable that his classes are all misty, and who is thinking thoughts that would set fire to an asbestos curtain.

OH! MY BACK!

The Expression of Many a Kidney Sufferer in Maysville.

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve sluggish kidneys—relieve aching backs. Ask your neighbors. Here's Maysville proof:

Mrs. H. Jones, 702 East Second street, says: "I well know the value of Doan's Kidney Pills, having used them for disordered kidneys and backache and they cured me of the complaint. My back had been giving me trouble for sometime. There was a dull, nagging pain across the center of my back just over my kidneys. Many a day I had to let my housework go undone as I was feeling so miserable. I had pains in the back of my head and my kidneys weren't acting regularly. As Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family successfully I went to Wood & Son's Drug Store and got three boxes. After using them I was all right. I am glad to recommend Doan's."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Jones had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

PASTURES YIELD HALF OF WHAT THEY SHOULD.

Lexington, Ky. — Kentucky has a pasture acreage equal to that of all other crops combined that is producing not more than one-half of what it should in the way of feed for livestock according to R. E. Stephenson, soils specialist of the College of Agriculture. The best bluegrass pasture will carry about one steer an acre during favorable seasons but in many pasture fields found in the state, several acres are required to maintain a single animal. Much of this land, which is too poor to furnish profitable pasture, can be brought to a profitable state of productivity by proper fertilization, he said.

"In general, basic slag stands in high favor as a grass fertilizer. However, the use of acid phosphate and a light application of finely ground limestone should prove equally as satisfactory. The growing of clover improves the grazing quality of pastures and at the same time improves the soil and yield of grass. However, on poor, sour soils, few clovers will succeed without the use of limestone.

"If all manure is returned to pastures, it is rather inexpensive to maintain the phosphorous supply of the soil. Each 100 pounds of meat and each 10,000 pounds of milk produced on a pasture remove about as much phosphorous as is supplied by 100 pounds of 16-per cent. acid phosphate. The cost of maintaining the phosphorous supply should not exceed 20 cents an acre a year, a 200-pound application being sufficient to replace what the animals remove for several years, provided the manure is returned.

"Nearly all old pasture fields are poor in nitrogen and organic matter. The only practical way to supply the nitrogen is by growing a legume. White clover, Japan clover, and red clover all are found to some extent in pastures and by the use of lime and other fertilizers may be made to grow abundantly. As a rule, soils are well stocked with potash, about 90 per cent. of it being returned in the manure. There seldom is any need for other applications of potash when the manure is cared for properly."

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN TO RAISE MILLION DOLLARS.

Louisville. —The lecture of a treasurer and plans for raising an educational fund of $1,000,000 by the Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches of Kentucky will be discussed at a meeting of the joint commission of these two branches, to be held Tuesday at the Presbyterian Seminary. The call has been issued by Rev. R. T. Gillespie, chairman of the organization and sets for that in order to complete the movement as early as possible it will be necessary to map out the itinerary and fix the dates for visiting the churches. A field force used in other synods on similar work will be sent out from Louisville in a few days.

Not many years ago Argentina had to import its flour. Today it sells wheat to the world, the value of the annual harvest amounting to more than $500,000,000.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Pathé feature, is the first motion picture (6,000 feet in length) photographed wholly in the Arctic regions? "Nanook of the North," the Pathé photoplay, is the first motion picture depicting the actual life of the Eskimo—being a truthful and vivid story of father and mother Eskimo and all the little Eskimos at home.

The big Pathé feature, "Nanook of the North," was made by Robert J. Flaherty, Engineer and Explorer of Sir William MacKenzie's Expeditions in the Barren Lands of the Far North East Coast of the Hudson Bay—as described by him in the published records of the American Geographical Society.

In "Nanook of the North," the big Pathé feature, the scenes of the picture were located in the vicinity of Capo Ruffin, N. W. Ungava; covering a large expanse of land and frozen sea about two-thirds of the way up the East Coast of Hudson Bay—uninhabited except by a small tribe of Eskimos which exists entirely independent of civilization.

All the activities in the life of the Eskimos—such as fishing and fighting with seals and walrus, building tents in summer and snow igloos in winter, built in an hour at the end of the winter's day of dogsledge travel—are shown in the Pathé special, "Nanook of the North."

EATS UP MUSIC.

Nanook, the mighty Eskimo hunter, and hero of the Pathé Motion picture feature, "Nanook of the North," had never been near enough to even the remote outposts of civilization to get acquainted with the phonograph, an Explorer Flaherty took a small machine out to the Northeast Hudson Bay region on one of his later expeditions, and the result was most interesting, as Nanook was fascinated by the uncanny talking machine.

When the disc was removed and explained, Nanook tried to pite off a piece. Being somewhat familiar with the canned edibles carried by white men on exploring trips, it occurred to him that the "canned talk thing" might prove appetizing as well. Since being made the star of a motion picture feature the explorer-producer, Mr. Flaherty, says that Nanook is prepared to believe white men capable of anything—except becoming independent citizens of the frozen North.

Greg Semcnoff, at last, is off to join the remnants of his army in North China. We do hope he gets mixed up with General Wu's most business-like commander.

THREE GAMES EACH WEEK ONLY THING DECIDED UPON

Meeting of League Authorities at Lexington Wednesday Evening Was Mostly a Talk-Fest Says Statistician of League.

J. T. Estes, statistician of the Bluegrass League, in a credited story in Thursday's Lexington Herald has this to say of Wednesday night's meeting: When it comes to discussion we'll have to admit that the Bluegrass League is one of the greatest organizations in the world. Directors of the league, together with a few managers, owners, presidents, and President Thomas M. Russell, met at the Phoenix hotel Wednesday night, and the oral calisthenics they executed would have made the House of Representatives look like a deaf and dumb institute.

The only thing done—it was reported to have been done—was to pass a motion for changing the Bluegrass League schedule to three games a week instead of two. This matter was put to a vote and found favorable with all the teams, but past that point, the clubs found trouble in agreeing.

The league was unanimous for making the schedule for four games a week, with the exception of Mt. Sterling, which finally compromised at three performances. Games probably will be played on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

The date of changing the schedule was not set, and the date for the closing of the season was also unset. The season, however, probably will close about the time that of the Kitten League does, in order that a Kentucky championship series may be arranged with the Iowa-state organization.

The schedule is to be submitted at another meeting of the league which will be called in the near future. Jess Morton, business manager of the Lexington club, became very bellicose about entering the new schedule, and threatened to take the local club out of the league if any of Lexington's score of Sunday games were moved to another town by the new schedule.

Funeral will be held from the home Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial will be made at the Mayfield cemetery.

COLORED HIGH SCHOOL ENDS YEAR WITH COMMENCEMENT

Commencement Exercises at Washington Opera House Wednesday Evening Were Well Attended.

The final exercises of the Maysville Colored High School were held at the Washington Opera House Wednesday evening and the house was filled with friends and relatives of the graduates and students and many white friends occupied seats in the balcony. The program was unusually good. The orations and essays by the graduates plainly showed that they had spent much time in their preparation. Their thought was splendid and the delivery was very good. Music was one of the features of the program as it is always and no sweeter music is ever heard in Maysville than that rendered by the colored students at these annual school affairs.

This year has been a very successful one in the Maysville Colored School. Prof. W. H. Humphrey, the talented and hard working principal, together with a very efficient and well co-operating corps of teachers, deserves much credit for the splendid year. The colored people of Maysville should take a greater interest in the local schools and should appreciate more and more the great opportunities offered in such a high class facility.

NEW PAY SLASH IS EXPECTED THURSDAY

Rail Board Expected to Announce Cut in Clerks Signal Men and Others in Official Communication Today.

Chicago, June 15.—The United States Railroad Labor Board was ready today to order another cut in pay of rail workers, bringing the total recent reductions to approximately $145,000,000.

The latest order, expected to be made public today, trims the pay of clerks, officers, stationary firemen, marine employees and signal men. Shop and maintenance of way workers were hit in previous decisions. Approximately 1,250,000 employees are covered in the three orders. Today's order, it was believed, will be the last pay cut in the present readjustment.

As the order, which has been anticipated for some time, was prepared executives of 11 big rail unions received returns on the strike vote they ordered. Latest reports, according to those in close touch with the situation, show that 91 per cent. of the men favor a strike rather than to submit to the cuts of the board.

Leaders have stated they were in favor of a strike. When the official count is made union executives will have authority to call a strike.

OHIO PASTOR ELOPES WITH WIFE'S FRIEND

Pastor Leaves His Wife to Elope With Girl Boarder in Their Home—Tells Wife He Loves Boarder Best.

Xenia, Ohio, June 15.—Members of the Methodist Episcopal church at Spring Valley, nine miles from here were surprised today when told by Mrs. Walter W. Culp, wife of the Rev. Culp, 45, their pastor, that he had eloped with Esther Hughes, 18, a boarder at the Culp home. His parting words, according to his wife, were: "I think I like her better than I do you, and I think I am doing the right thing by leaving you and going with her."

Mrs. Culp told neighbors that she sat up all night watching preparations for the elopement, but was afraid to give a warning until her husband had left, because he threatened to take their nine children with him. The children range in age from 14 down to twins of six months. She said she was going to let her husband go and is making plans to return to return to her former home at Wakarusa, Ind. The superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal conference in Springfield has been requested to supply another minister. Mrs. Culp said her husband first met Miss Hughes in Greenville, Ohio, and had her come to board with them when he was transferred here. The Culp has been married fourteen years.

EVANGELIST HOWARD GIVES STIRRING MESSAGE ON SIN.

"Where did sin first exist? That personality called Satan was once an archangel, but fell, and he with a large force was cast out of heaven. Satan seeks revenge against God by attempting to destroy God's creation. By deceiving Adam, Satan caused him to disbelieve God, and as man fell through disbelief, the only way he can get back to God is through belief or faith. This was explained in Romans 5:12: 'By one man sin entered into the world.' And death by sin. When Satan succeeded in getting man to sin, he marked the destiny of every unregenerated man. Sin abounds in every unregenerated man, and only God can forgive him of his sins and take out this sin nature. Sin is the only thing that separates God and man, and, man and man. God forgives man of his, but cannot wipe out the effects of sin. Sin is inherited. It is an awful thing to commit one sin against God. Adam by one sin, plunged a whole world to the mouth of a bottomless pit. But Jesus came to destroy the works of the devil. As in Adam all die even in Christ shall all be made alive."

This was a very striking sermon and left a marked impression upon the people. Rev. Howard is a fearless preacher, determined he will not compromise for the sake of bishops, presiding elders, preachers, or anyone else.

Program for Thursday night: Trombone and cornet duet. Special number in song. Sermon—"How Diavese came to be in Hell," by Evangelist Howard. Program for Thursday afternoon: Special musical number. Sermon by Sister Cox. Subject: "Peter and how he fell."

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it doesn't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache."

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in.
